DAHLIA CULTURE

The soil should be thoroughly cultivated and well pulverized; then dig a good size hole and put in a shovel full of well rotted manure and work it up well with the soil; then cover with a little soil and lay bulb flat down with "eye" or sprout on top side, cover with  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches of soil. After dahlia is up gradually fill up hole so that when soil is level the bulb will be covered 4 to 6 inches deep.

In planting in rows put  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 feet apart.

Cultivation is most important. Keep them free from weeds and never allow the soil to crust. When you give them water, do it thoroughly and about once or twice a week.

For exhibition flowers, leave one stalk to bulb and tie it to stake set well in ground. When about 18 inches to two feet high, if they appear too bushy, trim out every other branch and when budded, where there are three or more buds, remove all but center bud. An application of manure, either in liquid or ordinary form several times throughout the blooming season is very beneficial in raising large flowers.

When frost kills the tops, cut them off and lift bulbs very carefully and store in some dry place that is sure frost proof. Do not divide clumps till April, when you can see the "eyes" or sprouts and be sure to cut each bulb with a good "eye."

NOTICE—Plant only one bulb in hill and remember that a tuber as small as a peanut, with a good live "eye," is as good or better than a very large one.

IMPORTANT—When you receive your bulbs put them in a cool place and keep moist until ready to plant out. Don't let them dry out.
